Winter Storm Travel Warning (Level 2)

DATE: 2/10/2010
TIME: 5:30 AM
LOCATION: County- Wide
COUNTY: Pendleton

Due to the winter storm and the hazardous road conditions, normal travel may be disrupted or impossible. The following travel warning has been issued for Pendleton County.

Travel Warning

Upon recommendation from county officials such as the County Road Department Supervisor, Pendleton County Magistrates, the County Sheriff and the Judge/Executive, the Pendleton County Office of Emergency Management has issued a travel warning for Pendleton County, Kentucky.

This travel warning is intended to notify Pendleton County residents that roadways are covered with snow and extremely hazardous. Only motorists whose travel is absolutely necessary should be on the roadways. Residents are urged to contact their employer to see if they should report to work. County officials are requesting that travel in Pendleton County be limited to essential travel or emergency vehicles only.

Essential travel is defined as that travel necessitated for life sustaining means, including but not limited to; travel for medical purposes, travel for obtainment of food or water, travel for employment purposes, or travel for obtainment of heating fuel or heating sources. This travel warning is not mandatory nor is it an order declaring nonessential traffic illegal.

This travel warning will be effective until further notice.
